

Security for Your Residential Building

These days, security is not an amenity. It's a necessity. At Unitone, we understand that. Our line of video intercom/alarm/information systems provides unparalleled security, privacy and peace of mind. It's an essential way to attract quality tenants and an invaluable way to protect your property and ensure a great return on your investment.

- Raise the value of your property
- Get up to a 20% discount on insurance for home owners and building owners
- Attract more buyers/renters at the highest prices
- Install different models in the same building according to tenant preference (i.e. with or without a handset).
- Update a tenant's name and information remotely from the management office.
- Send on-screen messages in one operation regarding maintenance, meetings or deliveries to individuals, groups of tenants or the entire building.
- Provide tenants with unsurpassed security and a full-range of personal services such as fire, police, medical and intrusion alarms, message notification, taxi request, multiple camera views and automatic call return.

Interchangeable Features— Flexible Design

Whether your building has a doorman, a part-time doorman or no doorman at all, Unitone provides state-of-the-art video intercoms, personal messaging centers and home alarm systems that are right for you.

Our revolutionary modular design allows for flexibility of features and easy upgrades.

Because Unitone's parts are separate and interchangeable, you can customize a system for your specific needs. For example, if you want to add alarms or additional camera views, all you need is a new keypad, not a new unit. Available with or without a handset in stainless steel, white and custom colors, Unitone offers something for every residential building.

U.S. Manufacturer

At Unitone, we do just one thing — manufacture and maintain Unitone systems. When you need parts, technical assistance or supervision, you can count on us to be there. Because we supply the system directly to you, support is first-rate and costs are kept low.

Fast and Easy Installation

With all of Unitone's added benefits, our wiring system is still easier to install and requires less wires than standard "push to talk/push to listen" audio intercoms. Once installed, the system requires little, if any, maintenance. Our in-house team of technicians provides full supervision and technical assistance for every step of installation.

Guarantee

All Unitone products carry a full three-year warranty.

 unitone

security at the touch of a button

